

Dear Students/Parents,

Date: 06.09.2021

Choicest Wishes & Blessings!

It is needless to say that the future of the world is in the classrooms. Though of late the classroom has been more a virtual one instead of the conventional mode, we are committed to educate every child to succeed. As online classes have become a reality in the Coronavirus infected world, students are facing many challenges. The learners are not able to interact with their peer group, reading habit has gone to the dock and the proverb "Practice makes a man perfect" seems to be losing its sheen. Most of them are complacent in engaging in the traditional methods but then here comes the role of the educators and parents to make out the best from the current situation.

We are the managers of the world's greatest resource i.e. students. And as they take their Half Yearly Examination, there is a crucial need to ensure quality examination practices for these assets of our society and nation. Students, you must always remember that you have our back always. Confusion, stress and anxiety during examination are inevitable but temporal and common to all. Academic excellence is the forte of your institution and you have to shine bright against all odds. Give it everything you've got-you're nearly there- and know that whatever happens next you've got what it takes for an amazing life. The potential in you is breathtaking, you just have to be forthright and genuine in your efforts.

There might be twists and turns but as you sit down for your Half Yearly Examination you owe it to yourself to work hard, do your best, be sincere and be true to yourself. Your brain is going through a growth spurt-a massive one, you and on the way to a beautiful life, acquire the best education but do not learn to take short cuts through unfair means. Feed your hungry brain with exciting things that will give you incredible power to open all sorts of doors and shape the life you want. This power is yours and nobody can take it from you.

Parents have played a crucial role in enabling the students to unleash their true potential. Let the path of our students be crooked, unexpected and difficult. Don't let any of the bends or detours change the belief of your ward that the wonderful depth and the richness of success can be reached without persevering. Be behind them but do not make them use the wrong methods to acquire academic excellence. Be the representative of the school to guide them to understand that regardless of the availability of easy means, choosing the difficult path will shape true and sturdy human beings.

Keep believing that you can, and you will. Now is your time to sparkle. Best of luck for the Half Yearly Examination, success is just round the corner, so get it!
